

HISTORY

Back in October of 2009 a group of Downtown Phoenix Ambassadors got together and said, “Hey, why don’t we invite our friends to come downtown, dress up like zombies, and freak people out??” Inexplicably, the idea resonated and nearly 200 people participated in the first-ever Downtown Phoenix Zombie Walk.

Fast forward to 2015 and the all-day festival has found a permanent home in Heritage & Science Park, a charity partner in St. Mary’s Food Bank, and yearly attendance that climbs to 20,000 people.

Zombie Walk started as a free, fun, family friendly community building event and seven years later we’re proud to say that it’s still free, still family friendly, and it’s still bloody fun. Downtown Phoenix Inc. and its community partners hope you love attending the event as much as we enjoy planning it.
